Second Annual Truth Day Sales Event Saturday

ONCE IN A WHILE I hear somebody say he would like to see another sidewalk sales event but I have not heard anybody say he wanted one this week.

This is not a good week for sidewalk sales. We all know it here but for the sake of subscribers to The Daily Register who live in Bonita, Ariz., Florence, Ala., La Verne, Calif., Alma, Ga., Ethel, Miss., and Thonotosassa, Fla., we just ain't havin' weather for sidewalk sales.

But we have something just as good coming up. I'll even say better. Because there's nothing better than Truth and that's what we're going to have.

I'm speaking of the George Washington Truth Day Sales which Harrisburg merchants will be having. George Washington's Birthday Anniversary, which is Feb. 22, which is Saturday.

Saturday is the day when Harrisburg merchants will be displaying the Truth Day bargains they are now so busy getting ready. The big event, sponsored by the Harrisburg Businessmen's Association, will be the second annual affair, with merchants cutting prices just like Little George whacked at that cherry tree. The day was a big success last year, and should be bigger and better this week.

First thing you should do is read the big bargains that will be appearing in The Daily Register later in the week. Then come on to town Saturday and see for yourself.

Harrisburg merchants want to make these George Washington Truth Days an event every year and they know the best way to do it is to have terrific bargains. You, dear customers, are the ones who will benefit.

HERE IS AN ITEM taken from State Farm's Illinois Herald:

"In the United States, 14 per cent of all auto owners own two or more cars. The proportion will be 50 per cent by 1965. It looks like the basic necessities of life now include food, shelter, clothing and automobile.

"The Financial Times of London reports that if you earn $20,000 a year, married with two children, here's what you have left after income tax if you live in:

"England — $9,400; Germany — $11,700; Canada — $14,500; France — $15,000; U. S. — $16,300.

"So, with all our complaining, we still don't do too bad here in the United States of America."

Asks $1,500 and Costs In Suit Over Legal Fee

L. M. Hancock, Harrisburg attorney, asks $1,500 and costs from ten defendants in a lawsuit on file in circuit court.

The complaints says $1,500 is due him as a legal fee in an ejectment suit in which he represented the defendants.

Listed as defendants are Elmer Farley, Paul J. Farley, Cecil H. Farley, Melissa Farley, Walter Farley, Christine Farley, Troy Williams, Mayme Williams, Zoe McGee and Mineola Bloomquist Hoover.

Five Children Burn to Death in Trailer Home; Six of Family Hurt

LOCKPORT, Ill. (AP)—Five children were killed Monday night in a blaze that destroyed their converted trailer home at nearby Romeoville.

Their severely burned father, however, bundled five other injured members of the family into a car and drove them to safety in sub-zero weather.

Firemen recovered the blackened bodies of Betty Wright, 17, Michael, 16, Marjorie, 14, Dolores, 9, and Joseph, 1, from the smoking ruins. The family of 11 had been living in a cut-down semi-trailer onto which had been built a series of lean-tos.

Hospitalized at Silver Cross Hospital in Joliet were Carl B. Wright Sr., 51, a night watchman at a material service corporation, his wife, Desolina, 36, and their children, Carl Jr., 11, Marilyn Sue, 6, Catherine Marie, 3, and Angel Lynn, 2 months. All were in serious condition except Catherine Marie, who was listed as critical.

Lockport firemen said Wright told them he awoke about 9:30 p. m., to discover the back portion of the trailer in flames. He ran through the home desperately gathering his children and piled them into the family car.

Realizing the plight of his five other children was hopeless, Wright, his hands severely burned, drove down country roads toward Lockport.

Lockport policeman John Price said he and two fire-fighting units were heading for Romeoville, about three miles away, when they saw Price's car weaving down the road. Price put Mrs. Wright and three of the children in his car and sped to Joliet, while firemen rushed Wright and his infant daughter to the Lockport fire department where they were treated for smoke inhalation. They were later hospitalized.

Firemen said Wright told them the family had three heating units in their ramshackle home, a coal stove in the rear where the fire apparently started, a bottled gas unit and another oil stove.

Officials said the home was an inferno when they arrived.

Both parents of the impoverished family told hospital authorities they had no immediate relatives.

No Tax Cuts Now

Administration Rules Out Any 'Spending Orgy' for Economy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration's legislative and economic high command today ruled out attempts to buy prosperity with a federal "spending orgy."

It also said no to anti-recession tax cuts now, banking instead on expectations of a business upswing in mid-year and on economy-bolstering programs already started.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland said after a White House breakfast meeting that "merely going on a spending orgy is not the solution of our economic problems."

He said a tax cut would not be "advisable, feasible, or wise at this time, because of heavy government obligations and the need to hold the federal debt line."

The administration, Knowland said, feels the economy will pick up by the middle of the year. If it doesn't, the situation will be reviewed before Congress adjourns.

Republican legislative leaders discussed the recession with administration economic leaders over bacon and eggs at a White House conference in President Eisenhower's absence.

Two Harrisburg Firms Presented FFA Certificates

Two Harrisburg businesses were honored yesterday by Future Farmers of America for help in promoting work of the FFA in Illinois.

Awarded Illinois Foundation Certificates were the Harrisburg National Bank and the T. O. Endicott and Son Excel Market.

The businesses made monetary contributions and helped publicize the FFA.

Making the presentations were State FFA President Donald E. Kimmel, State Vice President Otis Haskins, District Director R. D. Bruce and two from the Harrisburg chapter, President Larry Taylor and Treasurer Allen Buchanan.

The state group came here from Herrin and left Harrisburg for Flora.

er's absence. The President, who usually presides at the weekly legislative meetings, is vacationing in Georgia.

Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams attended today's breakfast, but a White House spokesman said that no one presided. He said it was an informal round-table discussion.

Meeting with Knowland and the other legislative leaders were Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson, Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, and Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell. Also sitting in were William J. Saulnier, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, and Gabriel Hauge, another of the President's economic aides.

As the Republicans conferred, congressional Democrats were calling for increased federal spending on public works to pull business out of its slump.

Increase Highway Spending
The administration already has proposed a two-billion-dollar post office building program spread over five years. Knowland said anti-recession programs already projected will have a "beneficial chain reaction effect throughout the economy."

Knowland cited stepped up spending on the federal-state highway program and increased defense expenditures in addition to the proposed post office construction program as steps that would benefit the economy.

The GOP leader also said that

SVDA Fund Drive Short of Needs

The Harrisburg community drive for Saline Valley Development Association funds is still several hundred dollars short of money needed, Richard Davenport, finance committee chairman, pointed out today.

Latest figures showed that $1,455 had been collected.

Mr. Davenport urged that everybody contacted invest in the future of the area by giving a donation. Persons who are not contacted should take it upon themselves to give, he stated.

Bitter Weather Claims Heavy Toll in Deaths and Hardships

Golconda Court House Custodian Burns to Death

GOLCONDA, Ill. — Gilbert Howard, 78, for 3 years custodian of Pope county court house, died in a fire at his home which started sometime after 6:05 a. m. Monday.

According to his wife, Myrtle, he had started a fire in an auxiliary heating stove at 6:05 and then returned to bed. The stove was being used, she explained, because their basement furnace had been flooded out by infiltrating water.

Mrs. Howard, a retired school teacher, said that sometime later she awakened to find the ceiling ablaze and ready to collapse. She said she aroused her husband and then ran to a neighbor's for help.

The fire destroyed the house and its contents but not until noon, when the ruins had cooled down, did investigating firemen find Howard's body. It was lying inside a door. Firemen said he evidently had been overcome by smoke before reaching the door.

A house next door, owned by the Howards and rented to Mr. and Mrs. Jude Layman, was so badly damaged it had to be vacated.

According to firemen, the fire had started on the wall behind the auxiliary stove and was caused by the stove becoming overheated. They said the fire then evidently went up the wall to the attic and burned out the attic, causing the ceiling to cave in.

Total loss to the Howards was estimated at $6,000. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

Mrs. Howard incurred burns on her face and arms but they were not serious and she is staying with neighbors.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death by suffocation and burning.

Surviving besides the wife are a daughter, Mrs. Coy Rudd, and a son, Charles, both of Chicago, and a brother, Harrison, of Golconda.

Weathermen See Little Relief from 11-Day Siege of Cold in Illinois

By United Press

Weathermen foresaw no relief from Illinois' 11-day siege of sub-freezing temperatures at least through Friday.

Forecasters predicted a slight warming trend today, but not enough to be particularly noticeable.

Readings plunged below zero Monday night and early today over much of the state with 8 below zero temperatures recorded at Moline, Bradford and Joliet.

A fire in sub-zero weather Monday night killed five children when flames swept their converted trailer home at Romeoville, north of Joliet. The father of the victims, Carl B. Wright, his wife and their four other children were hospitalized with serious burns at Joliet.

At Vergennes fire Monday destroyed a grade school and school cafeteria, routing 115 children and five teachers into zero weather.

In southern Illinois, an ice jam 20 miles long on the Mississippi River at Cairo halted barge traffic, and ice also choked the Ohio River from Pittsburgh to Cairo. About 100 boats were marooned in the Cairo harbor.

Ice breakers also were pressed into service to clear channels on Lake Michigan and the Illinois Waterway.

One Above Zero Here

The temperature moderated a bit early today. Instead of sub-zero readings the official low this morning was one degree above zero, Weather Observer Clyde Pittman reported.

Other low readings around the state today included 5 below at Rockford, 4 below at Peoria, 3 below at Springfield, 5 below at Quincy, 5 above at Belleville, zero at Vandalia, 2 below at Midway Airport in Chicago and 6 below at Chicago's O'Hare Airport.

Peoples Gas Light & Coke Co. reported a record output of 560 million cubic feet of gas in Chicago during the 24-hour period ending Monday afternoon. The Northern Illinois Gas Co. also reported a one-day record with 505 million cubic feet.

GM Sales Up, Profit Dips

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corp. upped its dollar sales in 1957 but its profit margin dipped and it lost its title as the nation's best corporate earner, the firm's financial report showed today.

General Motors' 1957 earnings or net income was $843,592,435 while American Telephone & Telegraph, parent company of the Bell Telephone System, earned $852,904,279.

In 1956, GM had earned $847,396,162 to AT&T's $777,791,083. GM's earnings record was $1,189,477,082 in 1955.

Dollar sales in 1957 totaled $10,989,813,178 topping 1956 net sales by 193 million dollars but nearly $1,500,000,000 less than 1955 sales.

Declare States Of Emergency in Several Sections

Gov't Workers in Washington Get Day Off Because of Snow

By United Press

Sub-zero winds howled into the snow-crippled Northeast today and punched deep into Dixie, piling new hardships on the winter-weary eastern two-thirds of the nation.

Tragedy marched hand-in-hand with the bitterest weather of February's marathon cold wave, claiming a heavy toll in multiple fatality fires and in deaths from exposure, over-exertion and traffic accidents.

At least 141 persons have been killed in the latest blast of wintry weather which began during the weekend. New England counted 32 deaths, and Pennsylvania, Mississippi, New Jersey and Georgia reported 20 victims each.

Among the Georgia victims were 11 children and a mother of four of them who were killed Monday night when a fire blazed on a radiant heater engulfed their two-unit apartment house in Atlanta.

The latest deaths brought to at least 347 the number of fatalities blamed on the weather since a cold wave invaded the Midwest Feb. 6 and began its sweep from the Rockies to the Atlantic.

The storm marooned hundreds of persons in trains and cars stalled by towering snow drifts, isolated scores of rural residents, forced schools and industries to shut down in the Northeast, the Midwest and South, and interfered with the work of Congress.

State of emergency were in effect in snow-paralyzed Springfield, Mass., and in Michigan City, Ind., and in fuel-short Huntsville, Ala. Gov. Theodore McKeldin declared a legal holiday today in snow-covered Maryland.

Maryland was buried under a snowfall of up to 19 inches, including a 16-inch blast at Baltimore, the heaviest in 16 years. In Massachusetts, state officials estimated it would cost one-half million dollars to clear roads.

Government Workers Off

All government workers in Washington, D. C., were given today off in the wake of a 14-inch snowfall, the biggest in 22 years, and near zero temperatures. Corridors were empty in government buildings Monday and less than 100 of the 431 House members showed up.

In Michigan City, hit by a freak 42-inch snowfall, some 70 pieces of snow removal equipment fought to free the city, but ran into the problem of what to do with the snow, already piled into small mountains along the sides of roads.

Fifth Army headquarters in Chicago pressed a helicopter into service late Monday to rescue 21 Boy Scouts and six adult leaders trapped in deep snow near Westville, Ind. The boys had been snowbound since Saturday and ran out of food Monday morning.

Helicopters also were used in Pennsylvania, lashed by its worst snowstorm in 20 years, to remove two boys requiring emergency treatment to hospitals.

Emergency crews rescued 850 boy and girl Scouts marooned Monday by 10-foot drifts in New Jersey, and at least 150 Boy Scouts remained snowbound in mountain encampments in the state. About 1,000 Boy Scouts were stranded by snow in camps in New York State.

Help For Our Presidents

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

Some of President Eisenhower's sharper critics believe that, even after full allowance is made for his physical handicaps, he doesn't spend enough time at his job. His defenders insist that within the framework set by his doctors, he labors hard and long and devotedly.

Whatever the facts, there is wide agreement in this country that the presidency as now constituted is too great a burden for one man, even if he be the healthiest, hardest-working individual imaginable.

Under present law, the President has a battery of assistants. They may do a great deal of preparatory spadework, but they are not authorized to make decisions in the President's name.

Furthermore, though Vice President Nixon has been more active in a ceremonial capacity and closer to administration policy-making than most previous vice presidents, he is barred by the Constitution from making actual executive decisions.

Mr. Eisenhower, perhaps more conscious of the problem than some because of the limitations his illnesses have put upon him, is said to feel that Congress ought to approve two more vice presidents to take some of the crushing load.

These executives would be appointive rather than elective. They would have broad authority to dispose officially of many matters that now demand the President's time. One would concentrate on coordinating domestic affairs, the other foreign.

As envisioned by Mr. Eisenhower, these officials would stand between the President and his cabinet, thereby creating another tier of administrative authority.

No present or future cabinet member can be expected to cheer for a plan that would make more difficult his access to the President's ear.

Conceivably the Congress, always slow to move in major reorganizations affecting the White House, might not be eager, either to accord broad powers to officials not responsive to the electorate.

Yet the President's ideas in this field serve to point up a question that must be dealt with sooner or later. The presidency today is a mountain of complexities covering problems as wide as life itself. No one man can hope to keep well enough informed to act with wisdom and dispatch on all of them.

Effective leadership in this age seems to be a multiple thing. A President needs help—big help. If

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: FCC Commissioner Mack Claimed He Got No Payments From Anyone; FBI Is Supposed To Check Candidates For Office Before Their Appointment; Mack's Dubious Record As A Florida Utilities Commissioner Was Known.

WASHINGTON.—Here are further interesting facts about FCC Commissioner Richard Mack and the payments he received from an attorney close to National Air lines.

Fact No. 1.—On Dec. 30, Commissioner Mack wrote Congressman Moulder, then chairman of the investigating committee: "Neither I nor any member of my immediate family have received any honorarium, loan, fee or other payment, directly or indirectly, from the time of my appointment to the FCC July 1, 1955, to the present time by or on behalf of any person, firm, corporation, association, organization or group having any interest direct or indirect in any matters subject at any time to the jurisdiction of the commission."

Counterfact.—One month later, Commissioner Mack admitted to congressional investigators that he received various checks from Thurman Whiteside and that he knew Whiteside had some connection with National Airlines and that he was pledged to vote with Whiteside for National on the Channel 10 case.

The letter which Mack had previously sent Chairman Moulder was not sworn to under oath. Dr. Bernard Schwartz, then counsel for the committee, had asked that replies be sworn, but Congressman Oren Harris, the Arkansas Democrat who kept a throttle-hold on the committee's operation, refused. He also refused to sign subpoenas for FCC information.

he doesn't get it, the country and the whole free world will suffer.

Fact No. 2.—The FBI, now hastily called upon to investigate Commissioner Mack, was supposed to investigate him thoroughly prior to his appointment in 1955. On May 27, 1955, before he was actually appointed, this writer predicted his appointment and called attention to his dubious record as a member of the Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission.

Last month, Mack admitted to congressional investigators that as a member of the Florida commission he had received a payment from the same Thurman Whiteside in connection with a "trucking company" matter. He called it a campaign contribution. Mack was supposed to be an impartial commissioner ruling dispassionately between the railroads and the truckers.

The FBI, which has better means of investigation than a newsman, should have been able to ascertain this. G-Men have been investigating prospective federal employees as to who their friends are, what they think, and at times even whether they read "The Nation" or "Reporter" magazines, but the FBI has not seemed too much interested of late in whether a candidate was honest.

C. J. Cummins In Democratic Race for Sheriff

C. J. Cummins

C. J. Cummins has filed his petitions and formally announced that he is a candidate for the office of sheriff of Saline county on the Democratic ticket, subject to the primary election to be held on April 8.

Mr. Cummins, a brick mason, has resided in Illinois for 35 years and has resided in Harrisburg for 15 years. Before he moved to this city he became known here for his work as a smokestack builder during the development of mining property in this area.

He is married and is the father of three children. He and his wife and one child live at 1107 East Sloan street. Two of his sons lost their lives by drowning in a borrow pit north of Harrisburg four years ago.

Besides his membership in the brick masons' union he is a member of the order of railway conductors.

He is a member of the Harrisburg chapter of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. He has never sought public office before, but has always taken an active part in local, state and national politics in the Democratic party.

Fact No. 3.—Members of the Moulder committee originally proposed cross-examining Commissioner Mack in private. This was proposed by GOP Congressman Bennett of Michigan at a time when a majority of the committee was trying to hush up the probe. Later, when public pressure got too strong, they rushed into an open session without even Mack present to defend himself. Ex-Counsel Schwartz protested that this was no fair way to develop evidence. He was overruled.

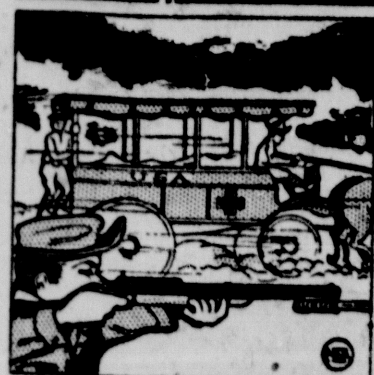

Fact No. 4.—Congressmen Flynt of Georgia and Williams of Mississippi, Democrats, expressed surprise at last week's testimony showing canceled checks from Whiteside to Mack. They acted as if they had not known about the Mack case. This was hogwash. Real fact is that they had been well briefed in fact Flynt has been busy writing to Georgia voters, trying to alibi the facts published in this column.

Fact No. 5.—Before Mack was appointed to the FCC, it was noised around conservative circles in the South that the White House was looking for a conservative "Eisenhower Democrat" for appointment to the FCC. McCarthy Downs, former corporation commissioner of Virginia, was contacted, told he could have the appointment, but turned it down. The appointment, under the law had to go to a Democrat. All the administration seemed interested in was getting a pro-Eisenhower Democrat who would go along with other Republicans on the FCC. There was no interest in the man's attitude toward the public or protection of the public.

This was the framework in which Mack was picked. On the Florida Utilities Commission he had gone along with heavy hikes in phone rates, mileage rates for phone lines, and concessions for the railroads.

Fact No. 6.—The Eisenhower policy of picking anti-public appointees for the regulatory agencies is far more important than the question of how they double-charged Uncle Sam on their expense accounts. However, a man who will double-charge Uncle Sam will also vote against the public. The two go hand in hand.

Matter of FACT

The Spanish-American War, though it lasted only 114 days, was perhaps the most decisive of all conflicts involving the United States. The 1898 war between the United States and Spain had a great influence on world affairs because it marked the loss of the last of Spain's colonies in the Americas and Asia and the entrance of the United States into the group of nations with colonial possessions.

Gray Asks Aid For Jobless; Hits Spar Imports

WASHINGTON, D. C. — In a speech before Congress Rep. Kenneth J. Gray (D) West Frankfort, urged his colleagues to give serious consideration to legislation he had introduced to aid the unemployed. Gray has introduced H. R. 10727, a bill "to check the growth of unemployment by providing for Federal assistance to states and local governments for the construction of needed public works and public improvements." The Southern Illinois Congressman also today introduced H. R. 10726, a bill designed to aid the Southern Illinois fluorspar industry by providing for increased custom duties on foreign imported fluorspar.

Gray said the increasing amount of foreign imported fluorspar into the United States is seriously endangering the United States fluorspar industry. He said his bill would raise tariff rates on imports under certain conditions thereby assuring domestic mines a fair share of the sales. Gray said last year's foreign imports captured 90 per cent of the domestic market. Consumers can obtain imports at prices producers cannot meet.

"My bill will save about 50 per cent of the domestic market for the domestic producers thereby providing hundreds of permanent jobs for our workers and insuring the survival of this industry so vital to National defense and Southern Illinois," Gray said.

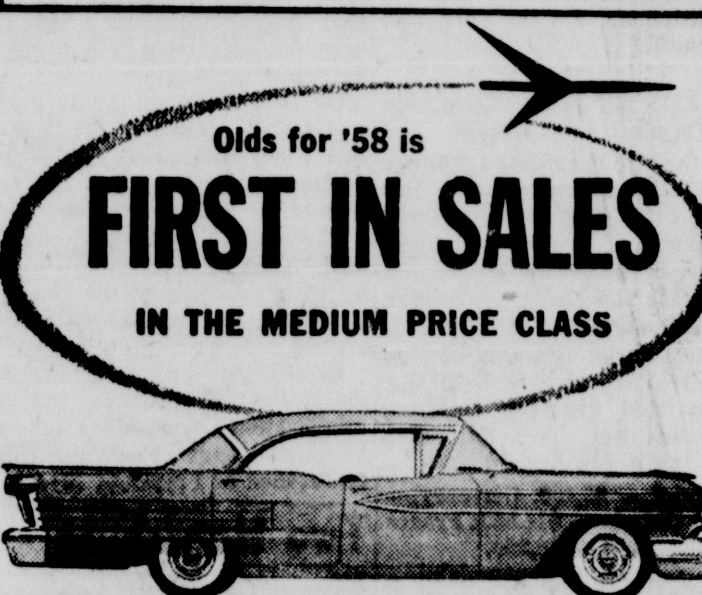

He added many public works projects would get underway in Southern Illinois this year, including high-ways, public buildings, post offices, flood control projects and other public works programs and if his legislation could be enacted it would be an added stimulus to this already approved program.

Hats Take On Height This Spring

Hats take on new height this spring and are worn to reveal the hairline. We show here six hats from the nation's top designers, all of them designs that are pretty, flattering and feminine. The packable travel hat by Chanda (upper left) is two-tone milan straw in natural and burnt tones, unsized so that it is completely foldable. Upswept turban (upper center) of sheer yellow silk is printed with scarlet roses. This John Fredericks design has a cluster of scarlet silk roses at the crown. Another version of the upswept turban look (upper right) is by Sally Victor. It is shocking pink straw with cuffed brim and high peak topped by pink silk poppies. The steeple roller by Chanda (lower left) is in shiny white straw abloom with brilliant blue cornflower blossoms. The little hat with high crown and rippled brim (lower center) by Beatrice Martin is in bright coral toyo straw. Lemon yellow milan and snowy white organdie are combined by John Fredericks in a tiered bonnet (lower right). No one of these hats is difficult to wear; all are meant to enhance.

Slides of Girl Scout Camp Shown at Rotary

Color slides of the Girl Scout camp at Little Grassy lake were shown to members of the Harrisburg Rotary club Monday at noon by officers of the King Coal Council. Appearing on the program were: Clayton Slack Harrisburg, chairman of the Girl Scout drive; Mrs. E. J. Thompson and Mrs. Eugene Morris of Harrisburg, Miss Webb of Herrin, executive director of the King Coal Council, and Mrs. Bruce of Herrin, volunteer camp chairman. Introductions were made by Paul Halbersleben, program chairman.

In 1952 the King Coal Council consisted of two counties and since that time has grown to five counties with 700 adults and about 3,000 scouts. Two professional people and one office worker are in the organization and their office is located in the city hall at Herrin.

The big project of the council for the last five years has been the camp at Little Grassy lake. The site was secured in 1951 from the fish and wildlife service and $1.00 is paid each year to keep the lease legal. In 1953 a road was built into the camp and in 1954 Bruce Lodge, the first building was completed. First summer camp of six weeks' duration was held in 1955. Since that time a dock has been built on the lake, a water system has been installed, a shelter house and shower house has been built, platforms for tents have been erected, a trailer has been obtained to be used as a hospital, additions have been made to Bruce Lodge and a main dining room has been built.

Plans for the future include the building of a new lodge to be called Sahara Lodge and more platforms for tents. This camp is supported by cookie sales held by the Girl Scouts, one of which will be held in the next few weeks.

Jerry Jones of Nashville, Ill., a guest of Bill Stain, was present at the meeting.

Matter of FACT

Insurance was probably first used among the Babylonian traders about 3,000 or 4,000 B.C. Goods would be loaned to the traders and they would pay as interest one-half the profits. If the adventure failed, because of robbery or other misfortune, the trader would not have to pay anything. The interest was the trader's payment for insurance. It relieved him of financial loss in case of unexpected disaster.

'The Other Illinois' Is New Book By Former SIU Faculty Member

CARBONDALE, Ill.—"The Other Illinois," a penetrating book by Philosopher Baker Brownell on life in the state's southern 31 counties, will be published today by Duell, Sloan and Pearce.

The 261-page book, 22nd in the American Folkways series, is modestly described by the author as "half social comment and half cockeyed history."

"This unorthodox combination," the publishers say, "makes a colorful and lively chronicle that is also a report on an area of life, a response to the people and folkways of the region."

Brownell, author of a number of philosophical works including "The New Universe," "Earth Is Enough," and "The Philosopher In Chaos," spent two years on the Southern Illinois University faculty organizing SIU's Division of Area Services.

During that period, he traveled extensively through towns, villages and remote hamlets studying the people, social and cultural life of the Southern Illinois. "If belonging to it can be the privilege of a damn Yankee from the north end of the state then I claim that privilege," he writes.

The characters in Brownell's book are coal miners, college professors, service station attendants, bankers, newspapermen, and housewives on the farm or in the supermarket. Some communities are treated in intimate detail, but scarcely any area towns are omitted from the narrative.

"The Other Illinois has become a symbol of something in America that we cannot afford to lose," Brownell believes. "The hills and bottom lands, the living forests and the fossil forests below ground, the lakes, the orchards, and the people, always the people, stubborn, bitter, beautiful in their little towns and lattered farms, this is folk America, the germinal society from which our democratic customs, industries, and arts continuously emerge."

Brownell, former chairman of the department of philosophy at Northwestern University, is now retired and living in Fairhope, Ala.

"The Other Illinois," available from Duell, Sloan and Pearce, 124 East 30th St., New York, is priced at $4.50.

Need Diversified Effort

The sometimes violent history of the area, its exploitation by outside coal and oil interests, the decline of farm income and industrial employment, and other misfortunes have left the area with a "burned-over people," Brownell writes. The salvation of these people and their communities will take

THE BALD KNOB CROSS of structural steel enclosed in a plastic sheath, will be built this year. It was announced at a meeting of the board of directors at Jonesboro last week. The cross will be slightly over 200 feet tall.

Bald Knob Cross, Long A Dream of Sponsors, Will Be Built This Year

By GUYLA MORELAND

Structural steel will begin to inch skyward early this summer in the massive framework for the great Bald Knob Cross, bringing into existence the dream of people who have contributed to its building—people from all over the United States, Canada, Mexico, Hawaii and the Philippines. This was brought out by an actual dollar and cents report of the board of directors held Wednesday night at Jonesboro.

There is sufficient cash on hand and enough revenue from the pig program to be received to guarantee this.

As many heads were bowed, a benediction was spoken at the opening of the meeting by the Rev. William H. Lively.

Cross Designed

John P. Everhard, architect of Urbana, designed the Cross working closely with members of the Cross Foundation, representatives of Southern Illinois University and the University of Illinois. He is connected with Creative Builders Inc.

The Cross is to be built of structural steel enclosed in a translucent plastic sheath. It will be slightly over 200 feet tall.

Architects and designers working with the Bald Knob Cross Foundation Inc. have decided the towering 500 foot Cross originally planned would be out of proportion to the hill and, too, the cost would be prohibitive.

A working model has been designed and is the traditional cross, only widening a bit at the base to give a sense of balance and strength to the building.

The Cross will set in 186 acres of land which at a later date will be landscaped and made into memorial gardens. These 186 acres are the property of the foundation composed of 116 members who each donated $100 and who form the board of directors.

The meeting Wednesday night was in charge of Warren Hastings, president. The report of William Planert, executive secretary, showed that in the pig program in 1956, 50 farrowing sows had produced 157 pigs from the 16 originally given the Cross by Myrta Clutts and others.

In 1957 this number has grown to 950, of which 600 hogs will be saleable by June 1, bringing in an estimated revenue of between $20,000 and $25,000 to be added to present funds, with $3,000 monthly thereafter.

Dreamer Double-Checks

Wayman Presley, one of the prime workers of the Cross, reported that he had made a trip to Washington, D. C. where he conferred with members of the Bureau of Standards as to the strength and durability of the plastic material chosen.

They assured him the material chosen was the finest and best available for the purpose. Then he had a meeting with the manufacturers of the material in Philadelphia.

These manufacturers called in their engineers and designers, investigated thoroughly and reported the company would stand behind their product 100 per cent and that they were so sure of the durability of it they would furnish engineers and designers at no cost to the foundation.

These men, co-operating with Foundation officials, architects, and both Universities, have promised final prices and exact plans not later than Easter at which time they will be made public Mr. Presley reported.

Then actual work on the steel-work will begin soon thereafter.

Pig Report
Mr. Presley reported that the pig program had grown so big that the entire farm of Myrta Clutts is now being used to pasture and house the pigs owned by the foundation.

Last year, he said, 168 sow pigs were placed with 168 farmers all over Southern Illinois. These farmers agreed to raise the sow until farrowing time and then return the sow and litter to the Cross.

Sixty-one of these sows and litters have been returned. They are kept on the Clutts farm until pigs are 8 weeks old. From them, all the pigs have been placed except about 100 which are ready now to be placed as soon as farmers can be found who will take them until farrowing time.

The placing of these pigs has become a full time job for Mr. Presley, he reported. He has worked only two full days at his job of carrying the mail at Maconda.

Money was made available to him to hire this work done, but there has been no one who could do the work. "Their heart just is not in it, or something," he remarked.

He is asking for a year's leave of absence to carry on this work. "If I can't get it," he warns sadly, "I will just have to stay with my job, as I've spent all I've made and I think I owe it to my wife."

Mr. Hastings assured all present that everything would be done to secure this leave of absence as there was no one else who could or would do the work. "Even to the point of writing letters to Congressmen, if we have to," he promised.

Mrs. Arthur Thistlewood Jr. first vice president of the Twenty-Fifth District of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs was an honored guest in recognition of three years service during which time she has not failed to assist at mail time opening and counting the contributions received.

Mrs. Thistlewood was appointed in 1955 by Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, national president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to represent the federation in the opening of funds. It was pointed out by officials that contributions should be mailed to The Cross, Box 513, Cairo.

Selling petroleum products is a gigantic job requiring the services of men, machines and media. Highest on the list of advertising media are newspapers—a giant that keeps the public informed of the quality of these petroleum products.

Over 58,000,000 newspapers are bought daily by people who buy from newspaper advertising. That's why dealers, jobbers and producers of petroleum, like so many others, place more money in newspapers than in any other medium.

The Siskiyou house stood on Miner St., almost directly opposite Jeff Chesbro's big store and trading post. Ward Sebastian, back in Yreka after some two weeks at absence, crossed to the hotel and went in, nodding to the desk.

"You're holding a trunk belonging to Miss Constance Ashland?"

"Yes. It was supposed to be picked up by the military. Nobody has called for it yet."

"I'll take it off your hands tomorrow. Miss Ashland has authorized me to bring it on to her."

"What's this?" The voice was at Sebastian's elbow. "Did I hear you say you were hauling luggage for a lady?"

It was Harley Ritter. He was his usual freshly shaven, pink-cheeked, fragrant self. Sebastian looked down, the beginnings of a frown of annoyance darkening his face.

"Harley, why do you always have to be so prettied up? You make me feel like a tramp."

Harley shrugged plump shoulders. "In my business a man has to keep up appearances. But what is this about a young lady's trunk?"

"A quite attractive young lady," Sebastian told him dryly. "Miss Ashland. She was on her way to Fort Klamath, but military necessity blocked that plan. So, for the present she is a guest at my ranch. Tell me, how's law—and crime?"

Harley's eyes narrowed a trifle as though he was not entirely sure but that a touch of ironic sarcasm lay behind Sebastian's seemingly casual questions.

"We've plenty to do, Mr. Biglow and I. There are some hints that Mr. Biglow may be called upon to set up proceedings of arbitration between the government and those Modocs."

"Too late for that," declared Sebastian flatly. "Successful arbitration requires some degree of trust, and those Modocs have long since found out, to their bitter cost, that it doesn't pay to trust the white man. No, Harley, there'll be no arbitration."

"That suits me," Ritter said. "I'm sick and tired of any and all mawkish concern for the Modocs. Clean them out, I say, once and for all. They're not worth wasting time or sympathy on!"

Ward Sebastian looked the round lawyer over with chilling glance, and his tone went crisp.

"Harley, I've heard you say that before. You're bloodthirsty, aren't you?"

Crimson suffused Harley Ritter's well-fed cheeks.

"Can't you do anything but take the part of those useless stinking savages? What kind of a white man are you, anyhow?"

Ward Sebastian watched Harley Ritter swell and crimson with anger, saw the streak of inherent meanness in the man rise and display itself. Abruptly he dropped all pretense of friendliness or geniality.

"Not your kind, Ritter," he said, his words flaring with distaste. He crushed past and moved out into the street.

The door of Curt Dennison's Timberlodge Bar swung back, letting out a couple of bearded miners, and with them came a gust of warm air, the mixed breath of tobacco and whisky and the wet woolen clothes of men.

The saloon was well filled, but Sebastian found a place at the bar and Curt Dennison brought bottle and glasses.

He spun a dollar on the bar, bought a drink. Intervals such as this, he mused, were good for a man, kept him from going sour. A couple of drinks, a cigar, and time to wring flavor from both—things as simple as these had their good place in a man's life and made it richer.

Sebastian put his second drink away, considered a third, decided against it and started to turn from the bar. Then he froze all movement under the impact of the words that reached him.

"You were lucky at Sheet Iron, Sebastian. You won't be here!"

The tone was wicked, the intent deadly.

The voice was Jake Ruby's.

A few times before in his life, Sebastian had found that a man's reactions during moments of extreme danger or urgency were not necessarily product of his conscious will. At such times sheer instinct could take over.

Instinct as fine and bright as a silver thread cut through the first startled awareness. He wasted no time trying to turn or look. He simply flung himself hard and desperately against the man on his left, catching him off balance, knocking him sprawling.

The report of Jake Ruby's gun was a dull and stunning blast, and the bullet from it crashed into the bar where Ward Sebastian had

The fellow of that shot did things to men in the room. Some it startled to immobility, others it stampered. A teamster, down-bar a couple of yards, was one of these. Understanding nothing but the implied import of a gun's trapped roar, he let out a bewildered yell and charged wildly for the door. In passing, his burly shoulder clipped Jake Ruby, spinning him completely around, and blocking Ruby's chance for a second easy try at Sebastian.

On his part, still moving to the left under the impetus of that first desperate lunge, Ward Sebastian was dragging at his gun and whirling to face the threat.

Cincinnati Ace Hits 43 Points To Lead Scorers

By United Press
Oscar Robertson had another one of his "hot" nights in his dual campaign to take over the nation's scoring lead and carry Cincinnati into the NCAA tournament.

Hitting from both inside and out, the brilliant 19-year-old Cincy sophomore swished in 43 points in a 98-64 victory over Drake Monday night that moved the third-ranked Bearcats a step closer to the Missouri Valley Conference title, which automatically guarantees an NCAA bid.

Robertson did himself some good, too. He boosted his season point total to 706—tops in the nation—and his average to 33.6 points per game. Elgin Baylor of Seattle has scored 654 points so far but is slightly ahead of Robertson in average with 34.4 points per game.

Wilt Chamberlain, the third leading scorer, registered 34 points as fifth-ranked Kansas walloped Missouri, 84-69. Wilt the Stilt now has a total of 534 points and an average of 31.4 points per game.

Bradley handed seventh-ranked Oklahoma State a 57-43 licking in a game featuring ball control. Oklahoma State is one of the two teams already in the NCAA tourney—Connecticut is the other—but the Cowboys have lost two in a row since they were named after winning 16 of their first 18 games.

Michigan State Holds Big Ten Lead in 79-69 Victory; Buckeyes Top Indiana, 93-83

CHICAGO AP—The Big Ten basketball race appeared today to be settling into dull routine. The same team—Michigan State—has held the lead for three days.

The Spartans not only defended the first place post they seized Saturday afternoon, they achieved another rarity in Big Ten cage play Monday night by winning on the road. The victim was arch-rival Michigan and the score was 79-69.

The victory was the seventh in 10 conference games for the Spartans and their second on a foreign court. It leaves them with four games to play, two on friendly soil and two on the road.

Ohio State, winning its first league game on an enemy floor, gave itself a boost from fourth to third place in addition to giving the Spartans a helping hand. The Buckeyes held the Big Ten's scoring ace, Archie Dees, to 19 points in tagging Indiana, 93-83.

The defeat shattered the Hoosiers' chance to at least remain only a half-game off the pace in second place. Instead they slumped to fourth place and went 1-2 games behind the leader.

Heading into the next round of play Saturday night, the first division was composed of Michigan State (7-3), Purdue (6-4), Ohio State (7-5) and Indiana and Iowa at (5-4) apiece.

The Hawkeyes won their fifth conference tilt Monday night, a 74-61 success over Wisconsin. In a battle of conference non-entities, Illinois trimmed Minnesota 94-87.

The proof is in the tests! "Buick brakes 100% better than Industry standard"

THE BEST WAY to find out who has the best brakes is to see how long they can stand up under tests like these:

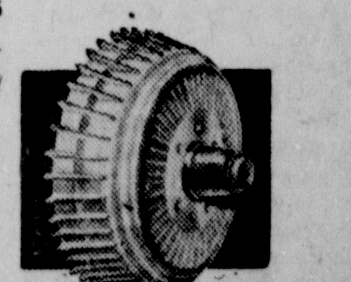

Test #1 California: Driver: Grif Borgeson, an editor of SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED Magazine. Buick CENTURY results: 22 emergency-stops from 60 mph and brakes still fully effective. Buick proved 2 times better than the closest American car tested.

Test #2 Florida: Driver: NASCAR President Bill France. Buick CENTURY results: 176 crisis-stops at 60 mph and brakes still going strong. Buick proved up to 8 times better than other cars tested.

How could Buick be so far ahead of other cars? Buick's brakes get rid of heat fast because they're aluminum. And only Buick has air-cooled aluminum brakes—standard on every CENTURY, SUPER, ROADMASTER 75 and LIMITED, optional at extra cost on every SPECIAL.

So for stopping-power that matches go-power—you'd better buy Buick.

Leo Richmond is Demo Entrant in Treasurer Race

Leo Richmond, service station operator in Harrisburg for more than 35 years and active worker in the Democratic party, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for County Treasurer of Saline county.

Mr. Richmond is one of the pioneer automobile service station operators in Harrisburg, starting one of Harrisburg's first service stations at Poplar and Cherry streets when he graduated from the HTHS in 1922.

For the past 30 years he has operated his own service station at Granger and Sloan streets, but plans to retire from business if he is nominated and elected County Treasurer.

He is a family man, his wife being the former Genevieve Reid, and they have two daughters. One is the wife of Thomas Clore, and they are attending SIU at Carbondale. The other is the wife of Dale Drone of Long Branch township, and she teaches at Equality grade school.

Mr. Richmond has long been active in Democratic politics in Saline county. He is at present precinct committeeman of Harrisburg Precinct 10. The only political office he ever held, however, was a part time situation as assistant supervisor of Harrisburg township, serving for about 10 years through 1953.

While a member of the county board, he became acquainted with county affairs, was a member of the purchasing, the building and finance committee, and feels that this experience, coupled with his business experience, is good qualification for the duties of the treasurer's office. In addition, he has a considerable knowledge of real estate, including descriptions and values, which is in line with the county collector's duties.

Carpentier Names Cronson to Succeed Samuel H. Young

SPRINGFIELD — Robert G. Cronson, 33, Springfield, has been appointed assistant Illinois secretary of state effective immediately.

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier announced the appointment Monday. Cronson succeeds Samuel H. Young, Glenview, who resigned recently.

Cronson first joined Carpentier's staff in 1953 and recently has been in charge of the index, securities and corporation divisions.

He is a lawyer, a native of Chicago, and a vice president of the Sangamon County Young Republican League.

No Special Session for Public Works Program, Stratton Says

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Stratton indicated he has no intention of calling a special session of the Legislature to help boost employment through public works programs.

Stratton told a news conference Illinois already has public building programs in the works, or ready to go totaling about 400 million dollars.

A meeting of about 1,200 union leaders at Chicago Saturday adopted a resolution urging a special session to cope with the problems of rising unemployment. Stratton said he has not yet received a formal request from the union leaders, but that he had read of their action.

"We are sort of ahead of the game," he said, "in this field of public works."

"We have one of the largest building programs in the country. I think we have sufficient means to meet the situation. We're in pretty good shape now."

Stratton mentioned specifically the state road building program to involve about 130-160 million dollars, work on a new hospital to cost 8-12 million dollars in the Chicago Medical Center, improvements at Illinois Beach

Ray Altmore, Civil Defense director, for Saline county, and O. L. Turner Jr. of VSIL, attended a Civil Defense meeting at Marion Monday night for the purpose of forming a storm warning system to be presented to the 17 southeastern counties at Anna Feb. 23.

A system was agreed upon by radio, television, amateur radio operators, school authorities and Civil Defense directors.

If the plans are adopted at the Anna meeting on Feb. 23 every effort will be put forth to put the system into effect before the tornado season which usually begins in mid-March in southern Illinois.

AF Begins Work On Million Pound Thrust Rocket

WASHINGTON — The Air Force disclosed today it has begun work on a rocket engine with a million pounds of thrust as the latest step in the U. S. bid to conquer space.

This is about 12 times the thrust of the Army's Jupiter-C rocket which launched the Explorer, this country's first space satellite. It is about three times as powerful as the Atlas, the Air Force's intercontinental ballistic missile.

It also is about three times the thrust most experts believe Russia used to hurl the dog-carrying Sputnik into orbit.

The Army has proposed to develop a rocket with a million-pound thrust. But Richard E. Horner, assistant Air Force secretary, disclosed in secret testimony released today by the House Armed Services Committee, that his service already has begun work on the project.

Horner told the committee that in 1954, the Air Force began studying a new rocket engine "units of which can be manifolded together" to produce more than 1,500,000 pounds of thrust.

This engine was put into "active development" almost two years ago.

"Somewhat more recently, we have initiated development of a rocket engine with a single combustion chamber that will produce a million pounds of thrust," Horner said.

School Officials Attend Statewide Vandalia Meeting

A statewide meeting of county school superintendents and assistant superintendents was held yesterday at Vandalia high school and attending were officials from this area.

Those present included Superintendent C. R. Gardner and his assistant, John R. Murphy, of Saline county; Superintendent Horace M. Brown and his assistant, Mrs. Hall, from Gallatin county; and Superintendent Willis Gholson of Hamilton county.

The meeting was called by Sam Bishop, assistant superintendent of public instruction in charge of statistics.

A school district report of claims for educating pupils in the new driver education program was discussed by J. C. Mutch, director of transportation. Ray Graham, director of the department for handicapped children, led a discussion on the program for the exceptional child, and N. E. Hudson, legal adviser, discussed new school legislation.

Also on the program was a discussion of the new formula for reimbursement on regular transportation of pupils.

State Park to Cost about 4 Million Dollars, and the Toll Road Program

The governor also announced appointment of former Mayor Ralph Johnson of Galesburg as Illinois veterans administrator to succeed Willard Manning who has been named state selective service chief. The Johnson appointment is effective March 1. Johnson has been Manning's assistant since 1953. The post pays $10,000 a year.

N. Korea Rejects UN Demand to Return Airliner

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—Communist North Korea today rejected a United Nations demand for return of a hijacked South Korean airliner. It seemed certain the Reds planned to use the 34 persons aboard as blackmail for recognition of the Red regime.

Two Americans and two Germans were aboard the plane which disappeared into North Korea Sunday. The Republic of Korea Red Cross cabled the International Red Cross in Geneva asking help in effecting return of the plane's occupants after the Communists rejected the U. N. demand.

U. S. Navy Capt. George W. Kehl of Kittery Point, Maine, presented the U. N. Command demand for return of the plane at a meeting of the joint U. N.-Communist Secretariat here in the neutral zone dividing the two segments of Korea.

North Korean Col. Kim Choon Kyung bluntly rejected it.

Kim claimed the two-engined DC-3 of the Korean National Airlines entered North Korea "voluntarily" in a righteous action to escape the war policy of the American imperialists and the puppet Syngman Rhee clique.

Therefore, he said, return of the aircraft was not a matter for the military armistice commission to discuss and it should be taken care of in "direct" negotiations between the South and North Korean governments.

Permanently Suspend Girl

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Minnie Jean Brown, one of the "Little Rock Nine" who integrated Central High School under protection of federal paratroopers last fall, has been permanently expelled from school because of troublemaking.

The 16-year-old Negro school girl has been involved in five racial incidents in the school since integration began last September.

Permanent suspension of the girl was recommended to the School Board last week by Supt. Virgil T. Blossom. Blossom himself does not have authority to expel students, only to suspend them. Expulsion is up to the School Board.

Minnie Jean was first suspended Dec. 17 after she poured a bowl of chili or two white students in the school cafeteria. Since that time she has been involved in a kicking incident, had a purse thrown at her, and has been subjected to two soup "baths."

Ice Threatens Mississippi, Ohio Navigation

ST. LOUIS — Ice, the thickest in a decade, threatened to cut navigation to a trickle on the Mississippi River today.

Col. Charles B. Schweizer, district Army engineer, said ice was building in an upstream manner from Cairo at the rate of 2 1-2 to three miles daily. The river was gorging in several places, stranding ice-bound towboats for 22 miles above Cairo.

Floating ice or gorges cover the Mississippi surface from 50 to 90 per cent, Schweizer said. In a flight over the area Monday, he saw an ice jam at mile 94 halfway between St. Louis and Cairo but there was no indication this morning that it would block traffic.

Monday night the Corps of Engineers ordered all boats on the Ohio to take shelter. Observers said hazardous ice conditions were the worst since 1939 and traffic may be halted for the first time since 1948.

Soble Swallows Hardware in Suicide Attempt

NEW YORK — Doctors have removed more than 1 1-2 pounds of nuts, bolts and screws from the stomach of convicted Russian spy Jack Soble, who swallowed the hardware in an apparent suicide attempt, it was announced today.

The 1 1-2 hour operation was performed Monday at Bellevue Hospital, two days after Soble was brought to the Federal House of Detention here from the Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa. U. S. Dist. Atty. Paul W. Williams said Soble swallowed 25 ounces of hardware while working at the prison workhouse.

Had the operation not been performed Monday, Soble probably would have died within 24 hours, Bellevue doctors said.

The hardware Soble swallowed included seven rivets, each with a 1-inch head and a 1-2 inch shank; two carriage bolts, one 3 1-4 inches long, the other 2 3-4 inches long, and five heavy nuts.
